

A Year of Advancement

1967—a unique year at W.H.S.; a year in which an exciting new academic atmosphere has been created with the emphasis on student self-reliance. Advances have been made in many areas. We have a curriculum to challenge all students and a better qualified faculty to stimulate them. We also have improved facilities for the study of chemistry, biology, and art to give all students the best possible educational techniques and equipment. In addition, we have witnessed the realization of a new auditorium for the proper presentation of music, drama, and lectures.

Wayzata High School in '67 has advanced as an excellent educational environment; it stimulates the individual student's desire to learn; it inspires him to set his goals high and to strive to achieve them.
